

Today I want you to think back to the cornerstones of life, symbolized as lighthouses. I talked about on them on the welcome video, you can watch it again on today's post if you need to.

Another way to think of the cornerstones of life is like the legs on a chair, the weight has to be evenly distributed or it will become off balance.

Think about the cornerstones of your life and your top 5 core values and fill in the above on where they are and aren't aligned. Are you compromising any of your values in your life? Tick yes or no or add your own notes. If it's off balance, you can make this an aspirational style goal to help make this happen. If so, hold fire on the goals as we will do these on tomorrow's task.

Please add them here and comment on today's post with #Clarity #Day3 on your new found awareness.